

Georgios Anastasiadis

Thessaloniki, Greece

jorganastasiadis@gmail.com

13/05/2025

Dear Members of the Committee,

My name is Georgios Anastasiadis, and I am a final-year medical student at the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. I am expected to graduate in July 2025 upon completion of my final two courses. I have a strong academic foundation in medicine and a profound interest in the evolving role of technology in healthcare. I am therefore writing to express my keen interest in the postgraduate programme, 'Managing Digital Transformation in the Health Sector'.

As medicine continues to integrate digital innovations into clinical practice, ranging from electronic health records and AI-powered diagnostic tools to telehealth services, the ability to understand, manage, and lead digital transformation has become an essential skill for the modern physician. This programme offers a valuable opportunity to develop the interdisciplinary knowledge and leadership skills necessary to navigate and influence this transformation.

My conviction that digital transformation is a foundational shift in how healthcare is delivered, monitored and improved, rather than merely a trend, motivates me to apply. Participating in this programme would give me a competitive advantage in the rapidly changing medical landscape and equip me with the tools to contribute meaningfully to patient-centred, technology-enabled care.

This postgraduate programme would be a critical step in further developing my academic foundation and enhancing my professional trajectory. My long-term goal is to combine clinical expertise with strategic insight into healthcare innovation in order to contribute to health policy, medical education or the leadership of digital initiatives within hospital systems or public health organisations.

As a fluent English speaker with extensive academic experience of the language, I am confident that this programme's English-taught format will enable me to benefit fully from its unique structure. I am due to begin my specialty training in medicine within the healthcare system in the coming year, so this programme is an ideal choice for professionals seeking to balance postgraduate education with clinical responsibilities.

I truly believe that 'Managing Digital Transformation in the Health Sector' aligns perfectly with my ambitions and background. It will be a valuable addition to my professional journey, and I am looking forward to the opportunity to learn from and collaborate with experts and peers in this forward-looking field.

Thank you for considering my application. I am available to provide any further information you may require.

Yours sincerely,

Georgios Anastasiadis